“On Saturday 31 October 2009, the “first of its kind” Gatekeepers Project was launched by the MEC of the Department of Public Works, Roads and Transport at the Boskop Dam near Potchefstroom.....

Our college became part of the project by providing a one day course to the proposed Gatekeepers which entailed a session on CPR and the recognition of a patient in distress as well as a session on water safety and the management of a patient overboard. We are pleased that we have trained the first 9 people on 29 October... ”

This excerpt is from a newsletter by Nico Louw, Head: Rescue and Non-Medical Training Wing.

Apart from the official work done in training EMRS Personnel from a National perspective, see:

, this again shows the commitment of the NWPG Emergency Medical and Rescue Services College to being active in the community in which they operate.

Not withstanding the fact that 31 October was a Saturday, a large compliment of Instructors were ready and willing to make their time available to ensure that the Gatekeepers Project had the support and training needed.

This in an effort to empower the Gatekeepers in the area by providing the skills required to enable instant Emergency Assistance to those using the dam.

As the provider of AMKUS Hydraulic Rescue and Paratech Pneumatic and Manual Rescue Systems to this institution, we commend Mr. Rudi Menkveld and his staff for their commitment to Service Excellence.

IMPORTANT NOTICE - AMKUS SERVICING

With the costs of equipment surging and budgets shrinking and being cut, it has become critical for end-users to ensure that they keep their AMKUS Rescue equipment in Best Operational Condition.

Taking cognizance of this and acknowledging that AMKUS has a 26 year history in the SA

Market, we confirm our commitment to providing full Maintenance and Repair Services from our Factory Accredited Workshop at our industrial facility in Alrode.

Using only OEM approved spare parts we ensure that your equipment will stand up to the requirements of the Emergency Rescue fraternity.

Please note that our workshops provide full guarantees on Service and Repair orders.
